Meet the New PubMed—It's Now Live!

The new version of PubMed is now live. The new platform offers enhanced search results and a more user-friendly interface. Please note that not all sites have moved to the new platform (i.e. Clinical queries, MyNCBI) so look for those developments in the future. Click here to read about some changes noted in January's Library Corner newsletter.

To learn more about the New PubMed:

Academic Competition and Research Symposium

The Academic Competition and Research Symposium showcases scholarly work of our many graduate and undergraduate academic trainee programs through an abstract and poster competition. All scholarly works are based on activities performed while the trainee was working at Northwell Health, the Zucker School of Medicine or the Hofstra Northwell School of Graduate Nursing & Physician Assistant Studies.

The Research Symposium includes an invited speaker for the Seymour Cohen Memorial Lecture on a significant topic in medical education. This year's lecture by Dr. Elizabeth Armstrong, Director of the Harvard Macy Institute, is entitled "The Innovator's DNA: Nurturing it in the Academy." The day concludes with recognition of teachers of the year. New in 2020, an online repository for the lecture, posters for the selected finalists, and a record for each of the abstract submissions was created. Click here to access the online repository.

New LibGuides Available

Three new libguides have been created in response to Covid-19. The links to the new libguides are listed below:
